BELMONTS HOSTS AT PRE-BALL DINNER

Mr. and Mrs. Perry Belmont entertained sixty guests at dinner last evening at Belcourt, Newport, taking the party later to the black and white ball at Miramar, the home of Dr. and Mrs. Alexander Hamilton Rice.

The ball, which was given for the benefit of a fund to aid the families of militiamen of Rhode Island and New York who are serving on the Mexican border, was Newport's closest approach this season to the summer spectacles which have made past years notable in society.

Among the guests at Miramar were the Spanish Ambassador and Senora de Riano, the Governor of Rhode Island and Mrs. R. Livingston Beckman, Mr. and Mrs. Perry Belmont, Mr. and Mrs. Jerome Bonaparte, Capt. Albert P. Niblack, U. S. N., and Mrs. Niblack, the American ambassador to Mexico, Henry P. Fletcher, the military attaché of the British embassy, Col. the Hon. Murrough O'Brien and the Hon. Mrs. O'Brien, Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Graham Glasgow, Mr. and Mrs. R. S. Reynolds

Hitt, Mr. and Mrs. Gibson Fairnestock, Mr. and Mrs. Philippe de Yturbe, Miss Edith Wetmore, Mrs. George von Lengerke Meyer, Miss Marguerite Caperton, Count Raoul d'Adhemar, Alexander B. Lezard, Arthur Campbell, and Preston Gibson.

There was no attempt to have this ball in two colors a masquerade or even a fancy dress party. The only rule laid down by the directing committee was that every person should dress in black or white, or in those two colors combined.

The majority of the married women and older unmarried ones took the opportunity of acquiring new evening gowns of black or white or black and white. Many of those costumes were of great beauty.

Others of the older set gave to their appearance a touch of the fanciful by powdering their coiffures or by wearing white wigs. A few of the younger set assumed liberty in dressing as Pierrots and Pierrettes in black and white. Not a few of the men had their evening dress coats relieved with white and other adopted dignified court costumes.

Girl's Confession Saves Man in Death Chamber

NEW YORK, Aug. 25.—The life of Elias Jazra, a Syrian, now in the death house at Sing Sing prison, awaiting execution for the murder of Raffa Kayat, another Syrian, may be saved by a confession made to Father Cashin, the prison chaplain, by Nebah Ghatas, a Syrian young woman, whose betrayal of Kayat led to the tragedy after he had refused to marry her.

The girl, a prisoner here, charged with being an accomplice to the murder, admitted that it was she and not Jazra, her brother-in-law, who killed Kayat.

At the trial of Jazra last July, five witnesses swore that Jazra fired the shots, while two testified that the girl fired them.

Fourteen Days and Nights Without Stopping the Motor

EIGHT CYLINDER

Washington—on the Main Road—Baltimore

The King Eight—already famous for its wondrous fortitude during its racking test—has achieved its purpose.
For three hundred and thirty-six hours of grueling grind its motor strove on a giant task.
Today, shortly after 1 o'clock, its test was completed.
The record of that ceaseless tour, unflinching, unhesitant, is admirable, compelling to the man who knows what to expect in HIS car.
In those fourteen days and nights, the King Eight achieved

6,584 Miles

on 598 gallons of gasoline
5 gallons of oil
6 gallons of water

THINK! Is this YOUR sort of car?
Is the herculean mechanical strength, the enduring ability of such a car what you seek in the car YOU want to drive, to own, to enjoy?
THINK! Maintenance costs—those repair expenses which are the bane of motordom, the purse-draining cars of the owner of the less efficient, less strong car—they are lacking to a happy degree in the King Eight. In almost seven thousand miles of this test the King needed no slightest mechanical adjustment or repair.

Nothing "Medium" But Its Price

In mechanical superiority, riding luxury, coach design and world-wide prestige, it is distinctly a "salon" car

PIONEER of its class, the KING occupies the unique position of being purchased "in spite of" its moderate price, as well as because of it. Those who would willingly pay more than is asked for the KING find the necessity gone when confronted with this car's remarkable luxury.

The seven-passenger KING embodies improvements and refinements in eight cylinder construction which could be offered only by a company that has had its "eights" in operation all over America and in thirty foreign lands.

Aluminum pistons of special King design, the latest advance on automobile engineering, are a feature of this car. They increase engine power and resist carbon.

Simplicity and ease of operation make it the ideal car for women who drive, and its extreme economy of fuel, oil, and tires is only another proof of high engine efficiency.
